

Head case is a charity that is sponsored by the Bramcote school. All the money raised goes towards finding a cure for brain tumors. So far they have done sponsored bike rides, all the money raised from the play Grease went towards the charity and all the local people have done what they can to raise money for the charity.

Story

The charity was set up when Rebecca Spears died from a brain tumor. Her husband Colin and three children Jake Arron and Eloise who made the logo set up the charity in 2010, since then they have raised over 30,000 pounds and hope to raise more.
